361 441 438 The commerce of Vernyy is developing quite perceptibly, due to the favorable position of the town at the junction of roads from Kuldja to Tashkent and to Kokand, and from Kashgar to Semipalatinsk. Formerly the caravans passed through Vernyy without stopping. In recent times they have begun to be unloaded for roadside sale. In addition, many merchants from Tashkent and neighboring dominions have come here purposely for continuous trade.

In the environs of Vernyy every year there is a considerable purchase of animals from the Kazakhs, not only for Tashkent and Kuldja, but also for Petropavlovsk, which is over 1200 versts away.

[366] At the present time there are two bazaars in Vernyy: a large and a small one. The total number of stalls in 1871 came to 390, whereas in 1863 there were only 50, and in 1859 about 20.
